The primary object of THE VERULAM CLUB is to gather together the representatives of Art, Science, and Literature, both at home and abroad, and by this means bring into more complete communication the Learning, the Research, the Scientific and Artistic progress, found in other countries as well as in our own. While it is proposed to insure for THE VERULAM CLUB a status equal to that of the best West End Clubs, it is not intended to devote it to any particular school; and though governed by certain special intentions, it will represent, in its broadest and best sense, every phase of thought and opinion.

The first 400 Members will be admitted without Entrance Fee. The Entrance Fee for the next 200 will be Five Guineas. The ultimate Entrance Fee will be Twenty-five Guineas.

The Annual Subscription for Town Members will be Six Guineas; for Country Members, residing beyond a radius of sixty miles from Town, Three Guineas; and for Members desirous of residence abroad, Two Guineas. The subscription will date from January 1, 1875.

On that day a West End Club House in the best position will be provided, in every way fitted for the requirements of a Club of the highest character. Both in situation and appointments it will bear comparison with the best Clubs.

The Club being a proprietary one, Members incur no liability whatever beyond their Entrance Fee and Annual Subscriptions.

Forms of Nomination for Election can be obtained from the Secretary, JAMES HUTTON, Esq., at the temporary Offices of THE VERULAM CLUB, 82 Regent Street, Piccadilly Circus.

"Dictionary are a class of books not usually esteemed light reading; but no intelligent man were to be pitied who should find himself shut up on a rainy day in a lonely house in the dreariest part of Salisbury Plain, with nothing else to occupy his mind but what Mr. Wedgwood's Dictionary of Etymology could afford him. He would read it through cover to cover at a sitting, and only regret that he had not the second volume to begin upon forthwith. It is a very able book, full of delightful surprises, a treasury of the tales of linguistic science."—Spectator.

THE REV. SIR EDWARD REPPS JODRELL, BART.

To Messrs. FELTOE & SONS,

26 Conduit Street, Bond Street, W.

When at Sall I received an Analytical Report of your SPÉCIALITÉ SHERRY, and you must forgive me for saying that at first I regarded the whole matter as a most egregious piece of humbug. Having, however, tasted the wine in question, and found it most agreeable to the palate, I determined, on my own responsibility, to have it analysed for myself, having fully also determined previously to expose any hoax pro bono publico, or to give you the benefit of the analysis should it turn out in your favour. I have the pleasure to forward you Professor Redwood's (of the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain) Analysis, which says more than I can express. I am very particular as to the wine I drink, and as I have been hitherto buying everyday Sherry at 60s. a dozen, I am rejoiced to find now that I can purchase wine of equal strength and superior bouquet at half that price. This should be known to the general public, and you can make any use you deem proper of this letter, and also of Professor Redwood's most elaborate analysis.

Yours faithfully,

(Signed)

EDWARD REPPS JODRELL.

MOHAMMED AND MOHAMMEDANISM,

LECTURES DELIVERED AT THE ROYAL INSTITUTION OF GREAT BRITAIN, IN FEBRUARY AND MARCH, 1874.

By R. BOSWORTH SMITH, M.A.,

ASSISTANT MASTER IN HARROW SCHOOL; LATE FELLOW OF TRINITY COLLEGE, OXFORD.

THE SATURDAY REVIEW.

"Mr. Smith brings to his task not only considerable literary power, but what is less common and more valuable, an earnest interest in the subject, which makes his book a fresh and pleasant one to read, and more stimulating than a laborious treatise might, perhaps, have been. .... A vigorous treatment of one of the greatest of all historical themes. Mr. Smith is not only the master of a lively and forcible style: he shows real historical power, and he writes with a keen interest in the cause which commands his respect. His remarks on the character of his admirers, and hatreds at heart, which if it somewhat affects our confidence in his judgment, enables him to leave a far deeper impression than a book of these modest dimensions can generally hope to produce."

THE ATHENÆUM.

".... It is refreshing to find a Christian clergyman who can speak without prejudice of both creeds, and 'render justice to what was great in Mohammed's character,' while he retains his reverence for his own religion."

THE ACADEMY.

"A writer who has embodied in a small volume of lectures a view of Mohammad's life and doctrines, perhaps more faithful and more just than any that has before been published. .... What is wanted is exactly what Mr. Smith has done—of course, in his too forcible and somewhat formal form of religious belief, and free from the cynical distrust of humanity which Sprenger occasionally manifests. .... Mohammad may trust himself in the hands of this his newest exponent. .... A most interesting, most eloquent lecture."

THE GUARDIAN.

"There exists, we fear, between us and the author of this volume a substratum of very grave and serious difference. .... But our author has done his best to give a fair and impartial admission for the many high merits of Mr. Bosworth Smith's lectures, not a large measure of agreement in many leading principles. .... His positions, whether we agree with them or not, are stated with admirable clearness; and, for the most part, with all due modesty. .... He aims at being scrupulously fair, and has, to a very considerable extent, succeeded in his endeavours."

THE EXAMINER.

"The third edition of the Rev. Dr. Arnold's book sent us at the same time for review shows how much progress such a work as Mr. Smith's For the relation of Christianity to Islam—the main subject of both works—is still presented by the Rev. Dr. Arnold as that of a supernaturally true religion to a criminal imposture. .... Far more liberal are the views of Mr. Smith."

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH.

"In this book will be found an exposition in every way excellent and exhaustive of the great topic of Mohammedanism. .... A calm and just study of the history, the work, and the better characteristics of Mohammedanism has been made by the accomplished and impartial author. .... A strong resemblance is shown between Mohammed and Islam, and to the most thoughtful of the bishopric and clergy. .... They will learn, better than Sprenger or Muir teach, how suited the Kuran has suited the minds it addressed, and what good work it has wrought in overthrowing Polytheism."

THE DAILY NEWS.

"He (Mr. R. Bosworth Smith) has studied his subject with care, and is anxious to show how much there is in Mohammed's career and teaching that deserves to be commended."

WESTMINSTER REVIEW.

"An important contribution to our historical theology. It gives us a clear, accurate and, in the best sense, popular account of the leading facts in Mohammed's life with such a broad and impartial judgment as might be expected from a lecturer at the Royal Institution."

BRITISH QUARTERLY REVIEW.

"Mr. Smith's lectures are able and interesting and well-informed. With the caution we have hinted they may be advantageously studied. There is danger, however, lest Mohammed should have claimed for his resuscitated reputation the prophetic authority and rank which belong only to a Moses, an Isaiah, or a Paul."

CONTEMPORARY REVIEW.

"The lectures are remarkable for their extremely high appreciation, not only of Mohammed, but of his religion, and are eloquent with a genuine enthusiasm."—J. Lewellyn Davies.

THE EVENING STANDARD.

"This lucid and learned exposition is based on the most authentic works in the East as well as in the West. It is written with singular candour and an evident desire to do the fullest justice to the principles of the religion delineated and the character of their extraordinary founder."

THE ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

"..... We readily accept Mr. Bosworth Smith's favourable account of Mohammedanism. .... he shows, without straining the evidence which he uses, that the Profound Mecca was a good and wise man, taking him in all in all, that his teacher upon the whole was good and true, and that his consistent followers ought not to be reckoning the enemies of whatever secular good can be done by Englishmen in Asia and Africa."

THE SCOTSMAN.

"The tone and character of the learned, able, and eloquent volume which Mr. Bosworth Smith has written will be understood by an extract from his own prefatory explanation. .... All who would know the differences between the Mohammedan religion as it is painted, and as it is, and also those between that religion as it was founded and as it has been built upon, will find what they want in this volume, in form of highly condensed information, acute thinking, judicial reasoning, and eloquent exposition."

THE DAILY REVIEW, EDINBURGH.

"This is in many respects a remarkable book. .... After extensive reading, however, Mr. Smith's book will be found to contain the following conclusion: 'That Islam will ever be a way to Christianity in the East, however much we may desire it; and whatever good would result to the world, it is difficult to believe; but it is certain that Mohammedans may learn much from Christianity and yet remain Mohammedans, and that Christians have something at least to learn from Mohammedans which makes them not less, but more Christian than they were before. .... The translation, even of the decoration, will be at once apparent to the thoughtful reader. .... After reading every sentence he has written, we acknowledge the great interest he has thrown into the subject. .... The subject, which the author treats with great freshness and force, will probably prove as interesting to a numerous class of readers as it was felt to be by those who originally heard the Lectures."

NEW NOVELS.

FAR FROM the MADDING CROWD. By THOMAS HARDY, Author of "A Pair of Blue Eyes," "Under the Greenwood Tree." With 12 Illustrations. 2 vols. 21s.

"If 'Far from the Madding Crowd' is not written by George Eliot, then there is a new light among novelists. .... A high intellectual treat."—Spectator.

"The novel is the most remarkable that has appeared in any magazine for years."—Examiner. "Another pastoral from the pen of Mr. Hardy would have been welcome if it only equalled his former productions in merit, but the author's respect for criticism has elicited his most successful effort. When the author's freshes of thought and manner are the chief characteristics of a writer, the critic looks anxiously upon his later efforts, fearing lest the dew should have dried upon the flower, the bloom been blushed from the fruit. Nothing of the kind has happened in the present case; rather is there advance on every point."—Echo.

BLUEBEARD'S KISSES, and other Stories. By Miss THACKERAY. Large crown 8vo, 10s. 6d. [Just published.]

"Daintily and delicately told little stories."—Athenaeum. "All of the stories are very good, and are told in Miss Thackeray's usual delightful manner."—Court Journal.

"It is full of pleasant touches, showing minute observation. Inside and outside is attractive. It may be presented to young people, and to people not very young, some of whom can enjoy its literary excellence, and understand its great cleverness."—Scotsman.

LAW and GOD. By W. PAGE ROBERTS, M.A., Vicar of Eye, Suffolk. Crown 8vo, 5s.

"The twelve short Sermons which this volume contains are amongst the best we have read for many years—simple, vigorous, spiritual. They have that unmistakable reality in them which convinces us that they are not so much intellectual efforts as expressions of the author's inmost nature. .... Simple and yet fine sermons."—Spectator.

"Sermons no ordinary stamp. Fresh, eloquent, and abounding in illustration from passing events."—John Bull.

"Sermons of ordinary type.... Falling in as they do with the tone of modern thought, and dealing rather with ideas than dogmas, they can scarcely fail to meet with a favourable reception from thoughtful readers."—Scotsman.

"A volume of Sermons far above the average. Mr. Roberts has not selected common subjects, nor has he treated them in a common manner. He goes beneath the surface, and seeks to make his hearers consider the true foundation upon which their faith as Christians rests."—National Church.

"The author has very high talents; a clear, forcible, and powerful thought; and a considerable faculty of polished and antithetic expression. Those departments of theology which interest an audience, such questions as the relations of law and prayer, the moral of great physical catastrophes, and such-like, appear congenial to the author's mind, and are handled by him with much power and insight."—Literary Churchman.

"This book contains much acute and thoughtful writing, and not a little of a yet rarer quality—wit."—Saturday Review.

"Good taste, sound judgment, competent knowledge; these literary virtues are evident throughout, and will attract and please the reader."—Spectator.

"Good, plain, solid reasoning."—Westminster Review.

"A very good literary study."—John Bull.

"The author is a true lover of books, and always estimates them, whether new or old, at their genuine value."—Standard.
